TIINformation

August 2023

In the past weeks, bushfires, floods, extreme heat and a tropical storm resulted in evacuations, deaths and property damage in Hawaii, Slovenia, South Korea (World Scout Jamboree!) and Norway. And this isn't even a complete list of disasters!

The list of damages caused by cybercrime is equally long. Cybercrime Magazine states that cybercrime could cost the world $8 trillion in 2023. No list is available of the total cost of natural disasters, war and cybercrime combined. Nevertheless, we should join forces to make the world healthier, safer and more resilient. Together we can combat climate change, terrorists and cybercriminals.

TIIN Capital tries to tackle cybercrime by investing in cybersecurity solutions that help governments and corporates to overcome (cyber)security challenges. As you can read in this news update, we continue to prevent cybercrime costs, together with our portfolio companies. We don't stop working during the summer, because cybercriminals don't stop their activities either...
